Subject: Smouldering dust incident

Hi Aled,

Just a quick update in relation to the smouldering dust incident on site on the 7th February 2014. From the investigation they have found that the line pressure alarms had been set to high which had not alerted the operator to the line being blocked. The alarms have now been readjusted so that the operator would be notified and a further alarm whereby if it reached a certain level then the plant would be shut down in a controlled manner.

Kind regards

Nia
