Introductory note

This introductory note does not form a part of the notice.

The following notice gives notice of the variation and consolidation of an environmental permit.

This permit variation is for the continued permitted operation of a flexible power plant electricity generation facility located at Pontyclun. The installation is made up of eight 4.65MWth spark ignition reciprocating engines (one 37.2MWth Specific Generator), which are used for the production of electricity. This variation increases the operating hours of the three natural gas-fired electricity generators from 1500 hours per year to 2500 hours per year.

The schedules specify the changes made to the permit.

The status log of a permit sets out the permitting history, including any changes to the permit reference number.
