Introductory note

This introductory note does not form a part of the notice.

The following notice gives notice of the variation and consolidation of an environmental permit.

The variation updates the installation's Operating Techniques, which includes a new loading bay extension. The variation also modernises the permit and consolidates all of the permit's previous variations.

The schedules specify the changes made to the permit.

The status log of a permit sets out the permitting history, including any changes to the permit reference number.
