Visit report/Comments

On 30th August 2023, Officer C RHODES met with M BAILIE for a routine inspection of the sewage treatment system servicing Cardiff Dogs Home, permit number: AN0001301. Weather at the time of inspection was dry.

During the last inspection which took place in 2013 concerns were expressed with the quality of discharge entering the River Ely and thereafter the permit holder stated that the site had begun operating a cess pit style set up rather than refurbishing and utilising the treatment plant in place.

It was established during today's visit that the discharge point is capped off and the 3 settlement tanks which previously fed the treatment tank, are currently used as cess pits and have been for some time, with Egan Waste tankering the waste as and when required (approximately monthly basis, levels checked regularly). Waste Transfer Notes were checked to confirm this.

As such, the site are happy to surrender their permit as no longer required.

This can be done via the following link using Guidance note and Application Form Part E1: Natural Resources Wales / Apply to surrender an installations permit - please inform myself once the form is completed and submitted.
