Section 1 – Compliance Assessment Summary

This is based on the requirements of the permit under the Environmental Permitting Regulations or the licence under the Water Resources Act 1991 as amended by the Water Act 2003. A detailed explanation is captured in "Compliance Assessment Report Detail" (Section 2) and any actions you may need to take are given in the "Action(s)" (section 4). This summary details where we believe any non-compliance with the permit has occurred, the relevant condition and how the non-compliance has been categorised using our Compliance Classification Scheme (CCS). CCS Scores can be consolidated or suspended where appropriate, to reflect the impact of some non-compliances more accurately. For more details of our CCS scheme, contact your local office.

Permit conditions and compliance summary	CCS Category	Condition(s) breached

The Royal Mint are running an electrokinetic remediation field trial to remove the heavy metal contamination around NP1. This trial has been running since January 2017 and is planned to run until March 2019.

Initial results are encouraging, although there are some anomalies, particularly with the results from BH26. Here the concentrations seem to be increasing, but this may be because the borehole is in the middle of the electric field and "catches" migrating ions.

The reasoning behind using mild steel rather than stainless steel electrodes has not been fully explained, we assume that it is primarily due to cost. An alternative may be to use a stainless steel anode and a mild steel cathode which would improve the longevity of the system but not increase costs too much.

The electrode configuration will be changed from January 2019 and BH26 will be anodic which should improve the amount of metals removed.

Natural Resources Wales look forward to receiving the next update on this interesting project.

The report is accepted.
