4. Details of our assessment

This CAR form is in response to WIRS 2402190.

On the 11th February 2024, NRW received a pollution report from a member of the public that the London Row CSO, also known as Cwmafan CSO has been discharging into the river for days and that there is evidence of raw sewage and sanitary products.

Following a review of rainfall and spill data provided by DCWW, it is evident that the discharge at London Row CSO (also known as Cwmafan CSO) was unrelated to rainfall through the period leading up to the 11th February 2024 and was a result of the network becoming hydraulically overloaded with an ingress of river water originated from the missing lid at Curnard Cottages (WIRS 2402148)

In comparison, NRW have reviewed the data relating to DCWW's upstream assets named Cwmafan RFC CSO and Gwaun Afan CSO for the same period in question which confirmed similar trends between rainfall and spills which are permitted discharges as part of the permit.

This discharge is not in accordance with condition:

2.3.1 For the discharge specified in table S3.3:

(a) The discharge shall only occur when and only for as long as either:

(i) the flow passed forward is equal to or greater than the overflow setting indicated due to rainfall and/or snow melt.

This incident has been categorised as a Low level/Cat 3 to water quality.

Actions

Replace the missing chamber lid cover at Cunard Cottages (Completed 26/27th February 2024)

Observations

Ensure maintenance is carried out on DCWW's networks and chambers to prevent a similar re-occurrence of this incident.
