This statement does not stop us from taking additional enforcement action if further relevant information comes to light or offences continue.

4. Details of our assessment

Dwr Cymru notified Natural Resources Wales (NRW) of an exceedance of Biological Oxygen Demand (BOD) at Treuddyn Waste Water Treatment Works on 14/1/25.

The final effluent sample taken on the 6/01/25 had 22mg/l of BOD compared to the look up table limit of 20mg/l. Despite exceeding the look up table limits they are within the maximum limits. This site benefits from a look up table permit which allows a number of exceedances before a failure is recorded.

Dwr Cymru believe that the root cause of this exceedance was snowfall and cold temperatures. They provided a photo showing a thick covering of snow. The snow caused issues with the bridge rotation on the final tank and the activated sludge return pump. The operator applied grit to the bridge, reset systems and cleared snow from affected process areas.

On 4/02/25 Dwr Cymru submitted a request to waiver this exceedance due to extreme weather conditions. Based on the information provided we have decided that on this occasion we will accept the request for a waiver.

NE Wales had a significant snowfall on the 5th of December, and it would not be reasonable to expect Dwr Cymru to attend all of their sites to check them. Please consider if the alarm for the bridge could be altered to alert should the bridge intermittently stop.

This exceedance will be taken from the compliance record.

If you have any queries about this report, or to discuss completion of any actions, please contact the NRW Officer named above.
