Introductory note

This introductory note does not form a part of the notice.

The following notice gives notice of the variation and consolidation of an environmental permit.

The variation is to add a new production line at the site that will use a new diamine (3,3'-(butane-1,4- diylbis(oxy))bispropaneamine) as a material in the production of waxes. The diamines will be stored in a dedicated storage area equipped with a local exhaust ventilation (emission point to air A16 on the permit). The empty barrels that stored the diamines will be disposed of as hazardous waste.

As a result of the new production line and the increase in hazardous waste generated from the waste barrels, the site will exceed the 10 tonnes per year hazardous waste limit for a low impact installation. As such the permit conditions have been changed to reflect that the site is now classed as a normal bespoke installation.

The schedules specify the changes made to the permit.

The status log of a permit sets out the permitting history, including any changes to the permit reference number.
