Introductory note

This introductory note does not form a part of the permit

The main features of the installation are as follows.

Mills Poultry Limited is a limited company operating a poultry farm with 96,000 places for rearing chickens for meat production. Birds are brought in from a hatchery and transported to a processing plant at the end of the growing period. Both the hatchery and the processing plant are at different locations and run by different operators. The average cycle length is 63 days.

The land around the installation is predominantly an agricultural area with surrounding grazing land, and some residential housing within 400 metres to the south of the installation. The land around the installation has a relatively steep incline, dropping away quickly to the south and rising sharply to the north west. Mature trees screen the southern edge of the installation. There are surface waters within 250 metres of the installation, with the Nant Menial (a tributary of the Afon Banwy) running in a north easterly direction approximately 15 metres to the south of one of the poultry houses (House 4 – B1.3/008 and B1.3/009 of the application). Approximately 3.4km to the north east of the installation is a Site of Special Scientific Interest known as Cors Lawnt.

The site is comprised of four poultry units; all of which have side inlets and roof ridge extraction fans, and all of which are sited on concrete bases, with associated LPG space heaters and feed storage in enclosed fibre glass bins. Birds which die during the production cycle are recorded and removed from houses on a daily basis. Carcasses are held in vermin proof bins prior to collection by renderers. At the end of the growing cycle, wash water is held in underground tanks prior to spreading. Used litter is removed from site and spread on separately owned agricultural land.

Releases from intensive farming installations may include releases of ammonia and dust to air, releases to controlled water, land and groundwater as well as releases of odour and noise.
