When I attended the site the weather was warm and overcast. I met onsite the site manager Andrew Morgan but he was busy at the time so I walked around the site unaccompanied.

The site still has the same amount of green waste and wood, but Andrew assured me the amounts would be reduced in the next few weeks as they are getting in the necessary crushers and shredders. The amounts do not as yet pose a problem but if they keep on increasing onsite then the potential for a problem could arise. I took some pictures then left site.

If you have any questions then please get in touch with me.
